PROFESSOR LONGFELLOW'S CASE_ MUGGINS vs HIAWATHA.

To the editor of the Banner. DEAR SIE:-Some short time since, a correspondent of the National Intelligencer called the attention of the Literary public to the astounding fact, that in his new poem, "Hiawatha." Professor Longfellow "has transferred the entire form, spirit and many of the most striking incidents" of a certain old Finnish epic, to the North American Indians. The correspondent goes on to say "The resemblance is so close that it cannot be accidental and yet the only approach to an acknowledgement of the source of his inspiration is found in the beginning of his first note, where he says, "This Indian Edda, if I may so call it." This old epic is called "Kalewala," and the name of its author is unknown. It is the custom in Finland to chant it at the firesides during the long winter evenings, and after floating for ages among the people, passing from mouth to mouth, and from generation to generation, like the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer before the time of Pisistratus, the fragments were some years ago collected and published in a form almost complete."

My attention having been thus called to the matter, and being tolerably conversant with various kinds of ancient lore, I went to work, with my usual modesty and candor, to sift this delicate matter to the bottom. I was pained in no small degree to see the above charge made against so distinguished a gentleman as Professor Longfellow and felt the utmost anxiety to clear him of the charge of plagiarism, if possible. The result of my researches is as follows:

The old epic called "Kalewala," is itself a plagiarism. This fact I have ascertained beyoud a doubt. The real original is a poem entitled "the song of Muggins," written ages ago, in the Chinese language. The date of the MS. (which I have translated with infinite care) has been obliterated, but is supposed to have been written about two hundred years before the birth of Confucius, and that Philosopher alludes to it in his celebrated work on land-turtles. The author of "Muggins" is now

The translation which is now offered for the first time, I believe, to the literary world, is a close imitation of the original, modified in a few unimportant particulars to suit the tastes of the present age, but the peculiar rythm, terseness of expression, and brilliant coloring have been, I flatter myself, singularly pre-

With regrad to Professor Longfellow, I think he is wholly innocent of plagiarism, having, I doubt not, never seen the manuscript of this wonderful poem.

I send you a translation of the poem, trusting that with its appearance before a discriminating and enlightened public, this unworthy controversy will cease.

I have the honor to remain, with distinguised consideration, Your very humble And obedient servant,

A. SHORTFELLOW. The Song of Muggins,

In the cold month of December When red noses are in fashiou, In demand are whiskey punches, Punches with a squeeze of lemon, Hot and strong and very pleasant. In demand too are the oysters (Not too plenty here within land) Oysters from the far-off Norfolk, From the sounding 'enths of ocean, From the chambers of the Naiads, From the crystal halls of Neptune, Glorious in a stew or scallop Or when roasted in the half-shell, But when raw and fresh they're matchless Sprinkled with cayenne, the pepper, Dipped in sauce, the red tomato, Bater then than ancient nectar, Fitter for the Gods than nectar.

In the cold month of December, Came to town the youthful Muggins, Son of Muggins called the Senior, Came upon the swift steam-engine, Came amidst the smoke and clatter, From afar beyond the sunset, That ie, far this side the sunset. Through the swamp they call the dismal, And interminable pine-trees.

Glad was Muggins when he rested From the tedium of his travels Saying "I am glad 'tis over," And his old friends called to see him, Old and new they called to see him, At the hotel in his chamber. And he took a black pint-bottle Out from underneath his pillow, And they drank the pleasant fluid

Made from Indian maize, the corn. Many times was this repeated, He and they together drinking; He and they were men of spirit; Drinking thus the potent liquid Mixed with water in a tumbler. Until, technically speaking.

The poor bottle was a "dead man." Then, the spirit having vanished, Usquebaugh, the stomach-warmer, Usquebaugh the fi'ry whisky, His friends together left him, Left him with his empty bottle.

Vol. 3 .-- No. 28.

Left him with his empty glasses.

Drank his liquor and departed;

Till one evening dark and cloudy,

The very hopeful youth Buggins,

To a red light dimly burning,

Saying to his friend while pointing

Many times they called to see him.

Wiggins, the strong whistler, strolling

Through the ill-paved streets, met Buggins

"What is the meaning of that red light?"

Quick and brief the answer-"Oysters."

Then said Wiggins the strong whistler To his friend the hopeful Buggins

"We will have an oyster supper;

Let us go my friend to seek him

So the two together wandered

Dirty streets and very ill-paved;

Sought for Muggins in his chamber,

Vainly did they search for Muggins,

Then they learned the doleful story

And went down stairs disconsolate.

There they met another biped

Of another tribe and country,

Samuel the curly-headed,

The very yellow Samuel.

Of the absent, the departed, How the very restless Muggins

Without saying word to mortal,

Took his carpet bag and started

Bought a ticket from the agent.

And went that night to Lexington

That very small town Lexington.

Neither spoke one to the other,

Thinking of the foolish Muggins,

Thinking more about the oysters,

Until Wiggins broke the silence:

"Let us go and get the oysters."

Felt a gentle glow and genial,

Bubble in his kindly bosom.

Felt the milk of human kindness

Entered at the narrow door-way

Of the restaurant, the bar-room,

The appearance of the waiter.

By the very hungry young men.

Who can never see the salt sea,

If you go not down to see it;

Ye who never saw an oyster,

How I pity your condition.

And the other his companion,

They were looking at the fixtures,

At the rum Gods of the loafers;

Making silent note and comment,

Gently drumming on the table.

At the bottles made of glass-ware,

Who seemed anxiously awaiting

It was empty, save a couple

To the red light straight they wended;

Then they ordered stews and-something

While they sat down and were gazed at

Ye who dwell beyond the mountains.

Who think crabs are great sea-monsters

Ye who could not tell the diff rence

How I bless my stars I'm elsewhere!

While they waited, he the whistler,

Then the oysters came all smoking,

Came in bowls, the earthen vessels,

And the soup was very grateful.

In the silence of the bar-room,

Toasting friendship to the bottom

Toasting too the absent Muggins

O'er their third and parting bumper,

Why it was that Muggins left them.

To the town of wretched pavements?

With their spoons their hands played idly.

Would be come again for oysters

And their eyes were very wat'ry.

Thus it was that in December,

When the bivalves are in season,

And the punches are so pleasant,

Hot and strong and very pleasant,

That the very restless Muggins,

Missed a most delightful supper,

Without saying word to mortal,

To a land where are no oysters.

WHAT IS THERE LEFT?-We hear

By departing on the rail cars

To a little one-horse village

Then they feasted on the bi-valves

And they drank the generous puncher,

Drank the steaming whisky punches,

From the vessels made of glass-ware,

And they wondered while they lingered

Twixt a lobster and a clam-boat;

And his words were very pleasant:

Thinking also of the punches,

Then they turned away in wonder

To the depot of the railroad,

Agent of the railroad, Coffin,

Through the dark streets after nightfall,

In his chamber at the hotel."

men the importance of industrious habits. sonal labor is servile, and derogatory from false notion of respectability is not peculiar to the South, but owing to the that of the population in the slave States, adheres more permanently to certain families, and descends from one generation to another with more regularity than in any other part of the country. This circomstance has given rise to the unjust misrepresentations prevalent in other States in regard to the hereditary characteristics of the Southern people; but an impartial investigation would satisfy the candid inquirer that this species of pride is peculiar to no part of the Union, but manifests itself wherever wealth is enjoyby ignorant and indolent men.

THE DISCOVERY OF MAKING SHOT.

In the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of the 17th in giving an account of a cast-iron shot tower and shot making, it is stated ted with a plumber named Watts, in Bristol, England, who about the year 1782 dreamed he was out in a shower, and the clouds rained lead instead of water.

HUSK BEDS .- No one who has not tried them knows the value of husk beds. Certainly mattasses would not be used if hask beds were tried. They are not only more pliable than mattrasses, but are more durable. The first cost is but trifling. To have husks nice, they may be split after the manner of splitting straw for braiding. The finer they are split that this method of making shot origina- the softer will be the bed, although they will not be likely to last as long as when they are put in whole. Three barrels full, well stowed in, will fill a good-sized tick, that is, after they have been split The bed will always be light, the husks do not become matted down like feathers, and they are certainly more healthy to sleep on. Feather beds ought to be done away with, especially in warm weather. For spring, summer and fall, husk beds ought to be "all the go" and such undoubtedly will be the case when they are once brought into use. There is no better time to procure husks than When corn is being harvested, and the husks will be much nicer and cleaner when corn is cut up at the bottom and put in stacks. They do not become so dry and weather-beaten. It is calculated that a good husk bed will last from wenty-five to thirty years. Every farmers daughter can supply herself with beds (against time of need) at a trifling expense. which is quite an inducement now-a-days. New England Farmer.

It seems that the parties had had some misunderstanding the day l efore; and on meeting on Friday morning high words were uttered on both sides, when White drew his pistol, fired at Singeltary, and then fled. The ball entered the lower part of his abdomen, just above his groin, and it was thought at first that he was mortally wounded; but we are gratified to learn that hopes are entertained of his recovery. GREENSBORO', Dec. 6th, 1855. A large number of citizens assembled in the court house, this evening, for the purpose of interchanging suggestions and making arrangements for a Public Entertainment, to be given in this place, by the people of Guilford, on the approaching completion of the great North Carolina Railroad; A spirit of liberality, good feeling and good humor was manifested on the occasion,-promising a hearty welcome to the thousands who are expected in a short time to assemble on the soil of Old Guilford, to celebrate the completion of the gigantic work which was inaugurated on the same soil in the summer of 1851.

On motion, Dr. John A. Mebane was called to preside over the meeting, and Lyndon Swaim was appointed Secretary.

SERIOUS CHARGE.- For several days past, it has been understood that a case of extraor dinary interest would be brought before the Virginia Conference, now in session in this city. Rev. C. F. Deems, of the North Carolina Conference, has cited Dr. William A Smith, President of Randolph Macon College, to answer a long list of serious charges, and the case will probably be reached in the early part of the present week. We make this statement only as a matter of information to our readers, who, we are satisfied, feel a deep interest in the premises, and not as wishing, or intending to take any part whatever in the affair. In the meantime, we look forward to the occasion with a measure of interest ourselves, as probably affording an unusual display of eloquence and talent, but we less. shall suspend our judgment as to the merits of the case, until we hear the law and the testimony .- Pet. THE REMEDY NOT IN POLITICS. The preservation of the Union is the great question, which vexes, more than any, the head and heart of the nation. Politicians avail nothing, and with their fellow citizens who may visit them | will not accomplish the great object by any political scheme they may contrive, be it ever so cunning or unselfish. They may build strange and grotesque or sensible and commendable platforms, as they have done over and over again, but there is one plank which they can never make fit, trim it as they will, and on this plank, everything depends. Conventions have been held, men of all shades of party and character assembling to solve this difficult problem. Have they not always failed? Yes, and they will always fail; the reme dy is not in the hands of politicians. It is a purely moral one, there must be a moral bond of Union, but it must be a bond stronger than that which cannot hold many of the principal christian sects together. > These are strong truths, and bitter though they may be, it behooves every lover of his occasion to visit Beaufort he would not require The ballottings had proceeded without country to think of them. A moral system which contains a single false element, is inadequate for the proper government of men; and since the moral law was established, as much for the guidance of our worllly conduct as for the practice of religious duties, which consist in the daily observance of our moral obligations, it follows that our conduct will be more or less perfect, because more or less strictly defined, in proportion to the perfection of the moral system which controls us. For instance, a sect springs up at the North or South; its members increase and people varis the following appointments, for 1856, for the ous parts of the Union. Those of the North, Charlotte and Shelby Districts: presently differ with their brethern of the South on a question of vital importance, the Southern members are slave-holders; they are denounced by those of the North as vile and ungodly persons; both profess to be governed by the same moral system, but it is too weak to hold them together; there is no tribunal to appeal to; and they decide not by their peculiar system, but by their respective interests or preidices. These are well established historical facts, and, depend upon it, there is something radically wrong somewhere. What is it and where is it? The question is no less interesting than important.

RAILROAD JUBILEE .- The Citizens of Greensboro' held a meeting on the 6th inst to make initiatory preparations, when, on motion of W. Gilmer, it was unanimously resolved; That on the completion of the N. C. Railroad the people of Guilford county will give a barbecue to their fellow citizens of North Carolina, and of other States, who may honour them with their presence. Of course a free ticket will be given to all who may "honour" the occasion with their presence and to a few whom they will not delight to "honour," consequently a large crowd will be there.

RISE IN LAND.

To give our readers a distant idea of the increase in the price of land around this town in the last six years, we state the following fact: -Six years ago a tract of land lying about a mile from town, was bought for less than $4. per acre which same tract was sold last week by Col. Robards for $300 per acre. Tremendous rise, that.

J. V. & T. Symons, & Co. have opened in this town a large assortment of goods such as are rarely to be found in this portion of country. Take not our word for it, but read their advertisement, which is handsomely displayed in another column, and go and see them .-They are new comers to our town and we hope they will meet with such encouragement as will justify the outlay they have made in fiting up their splendid store.

The following extract we take from the Watchman's correspondence:

"Present prices are, if we are correctly informed, made to average about fifteen per cent. on the investment. Under existing circumstances, we think, that eight or ten per cent, would be amply sufficient. High rents will drive old tenants away, and prevent new ones from coming. Only a few days ago we heard two of our oldest, most respectable and industrious mechanics talking about leaving the place. They said they could not afford to pay such onerous rents, that provisions of every kind were dear, and that their business was no more profitable now than it was prior our landlords hold out such inducments to settlers as will insure us a large number of additional residents, and let us, to the extent of our ability, aid and encourage new beginners in business-in other words, patronize home enterprise and industry—and in the course of a few years real estate will have ad vanced far above its present value, tenants will be more thrifty and better prepared to pay high rents, and all classes of the community will be benefited in consequence of the multifarious tributaries of trade and traffic that will flow to us from the surrounding

THEIR NATIONAL MEN. There has been much parade about national men in the opposition ranks of the North. If there were any such curiosities, the present contest in the Honse would have disclosed them to the country. Four northern candidates have been started for the speakership by the fusion. Let us see who they are. The first is Hon Lewis D Cambell, of Ohio, a frank and straight forward whig abolitionist; the second is Hon. A. C. M. Pennington, of New Jersey, a resolute and old-fashioned anti Nebraska whig; the third is Hon. Henry M Fuller, of Pennsylvania, one of the most active supporters of the notorious William F. Johnston when that abolition leader ran for governor in th t State; and the last is Hon. N. P. Banks, of Massachusetts, a gentlemam who left the democratic party because it could not and would not overlook the fact that the constitution protected the rights of the South. The only national men running against the democratic candidate in the House are southern know-nothings, who are aljured by their northern allies .- Washiniugton Union.

The vote was taken three times without a majority appearing for any member, Messrs. Cobb of Georgia and Winthrop of Massachusetts, being the prominent candidates, and having received an equal number of votes, 97 each. Then the final vote was taken, and it turned on the plurality principle. Deep interest was felt and manifested. When the result was announced Mr. Cobb was found to have received 102 votes, Mr.

BREADSTUFFS .- Speaking of the prevailing high prices of breadstuffs, and the immense supplies for exportation, which the country is capable of affording, the Buffalo Courier "There is hardly any limit to our surplus of wheat and corn, and if the demand abroad should carry 1 000'000'000 bushels, which is almost four times what have been exported in cumbrous parts dispensed with-not on- less some new feature is adopted in the one year, there would still be an abundant supply for home consumption. Strange as it may seem, that with a large surplus on hand, fully equal to supply the demand from abroad, prices should rule so high; it is nevertheless, in obedience to a law of trade, which makes a sudden impulse push the market values beyond a due limit, as well as to another law of trade which makes a derangement in the ordinary channals of supply, produce for a time-all the consequences of an actual scarcity.

> THE GRAVE OF MADISON.—A correspondent of the Fredericksburg News, in Culpeper county, Va., gives a melancholy picture of the last resting place of the illustrious Madison. He lies with his family in a grave-yard a short distance from his-house, upon his estate at Montpelier; the family cemetery is surrounded by a brick wall, and the gate is entirely down. The correspondent says that not a stone marks the great man's resting place; dark, running green box wraps it with verdure, and the tracery of branches from an old leafless chesnut tree, relieving itself against the warm azure sky, nod and wave over the dark mound.

Tis a solemn, calm and peaceful spot.

PERRY DAVIS' Vegetable Pain Killer.

SARATORA SPRINGS, Leb. 20, 1852. MESSES, PERRY DAVIS & SON-Having witnessed the beneficial effects of your celebrated Pain Killer in several cases of disease and cholera morbus, within a few years past, and deeming it an act of benevolence to the suffering-prompted by the feeling of commou hu-manity, I most cheerfully recommend its use to such as may suffer from the within named diseases, as a safe and effectual remedy. About lour years ago I used it in a case of cholera and proved an easy and effectual cure, and in many cases of rheumatism and in one case of catarrh; and sometime in December last, six of my children were taken down with the scarlet fever or canker rash, my only medicine was Pain Killer and castor oil—the Pain Killer operating to a charm in cutting the canker, and throwing out the rash, so that in five weeks my family were entirely recovered, with the blessings of a kind Pryvidence, and I do recommend the same as a safe and sure cures for the very dangerous disease of scarlet fever by giving one teaspoonful three times a day, every other day, and every y castor oil. Yours in haste, CORNELIUS G. VANDENBURG. other day castor oil.

BROOKLYN, Conn., June 15, 1854. FRIEND DAVIS-Although a stranger to you, I ake the liberty of addressing a few lines to you for the purpose of saying a few words in favor of your invaluable medicine. I have used your Pain Killer for a number of years, and for bowel complaint and burns, and in fact for pains of all kinds, I think it pre-eminent. Before I became acquainted with your medicine, I had a violent attack of dysentery, which reduced me very low, in fact my friends tho't I could not live, but by the treatment of a Botanic Physician, the best remedy I then knew, I recovered. Since then I have had several attacks, one very violent about four years ago. I was attacked at three o'clock in the morning and at sun rise I was not able to get off my bed, I sent and got a 25 cent bottle of your Pain Killer, which I commenced taking according to directions, and at 6 o'clock in the evening my bowels were regular, and I was up and moving about, although somewhat weak. I would recommend to all similarly afflicted, to avail themselves of your invaluable medicine. I am, sir. yours respectfully,

ELMER WILLIAMS. Thousands of Living Witnesses Certify to their Neighbors from Day to Day, the Wonderful Effects of DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

SANDUSKY CITY, Ohio, Nov. 24, 1848. Mr. J. N. Harris-Dear Sir:-Your favor of the 28th ultimo is at hand, and in reply will say -We began selling Perry Davis' Pain Killer, and with very little effort on our part; sales were small at first, but as it became known in our community, the demand increased rapidly, far beyoud our expectations, and every person that bought it would come after more, and speak of it in the highest terms as a valuable remedy for all those diseases your pamphlet spoke of. From those recommendations we were induced to use it in our own families, and the good effects of the medicine were immediately apparent. We have sold more of the Pain Killer than we ever have since or before of any other medicine in the same length of time; and we do not hesitate to say that it has given better satisfaction to the purchaser than any other article we have ever sold. Keep a large supply in the West, it is just such a medicine as the people want, and they have already found out that they can cure the fever and ague for twenty five cents. It will cure a cold in one hour-a severe cough in one night-and has proved to be the best medicine in use for a diseased stomach and many other purposes. Yours, &c,

A BLOOD-THIRSTY ABOLITION-

William Lloyd Garrison was invited to deliver a lecture before the anti-slavery Boston committee, but declined for the reason that Southerners have also been invited to lecture at the same place, on the same subject. Although Messrs. Wise and Mason, very properly declined to pass an ordeal upon the anti-slavery men, the simple fact of their being invited has called down upon their heads the following ferocious attack from Garrison, the very Head-Devil of abolition. The Richmond Enquirer is correct in saying that such violent tirades prove that these assailed Southern statesmen have done their whole duty in standing by Southern rights and the Constitution. They also slow that Senator Douglas, in clinging to the Constitution, has incurred the fiercest abolition hate, but, at the same time, has endeared himself more than eyer to true patriots, in every quarter of the Union. Garrison says:

"I understand, moreover, that your invitation was also sent to that lawless ruffian, the leader of the Missonri-Kansas bandits, D. R. Atchison-that desperate demagogue and Iscariot traitor to libe erty, Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinoisthat blackguard and shameless bully, Henry A. Wise-and that monster in have man form, James M. Mason, of Virginia. All these stand committed before the world as the most malignant enemies of the anti-slayery cause, the most contemners of the North, (especially of Massachusetts,) and the most ferocious defenders of the accursed slave system to the end of time-as well as the actual slaveholders, whose souls are steeped in pollution, whose garments are dripping with the blood of enslaved millions, and who, instead of being politely invited and handsomely paid by you to utter Blasphemies against the God of freedom and the rights of men, descree to be capitally executed, "without benefit of clergy," (if capital punishment be permissable in any case, which I do not believe.)

"What is particularly surprising is, that you should have selected from among the slaveholders and defenders of slavery, the most insolent, depraved and desperate of them all-Atchison, Wise, Douglas, Mason, Toombs and Butler, -the last men even among felons,) deserving of notice, much less of special consideration.-I have already described all but the last two; and beg leave simply to remind you that Toombs has insultingly boasted that he will marshall his slaves around Bunker Hill Monument, and bid Massachusetts to liberate one of them at her peril.

"Mr. Butler is the incarnation of South Carolina overseeism, and represents the State which imprisons, and sells into in terminable slavery, such colored citizens Massachusetts as venture upon her soil, and which expelled from her limits our venerable and much respected fellow-citizens, Hon. Samuel Hoar, though clothed with all the official authority of the Commonwealth to seek in a constitutional manner, and by due process of law, to save those victims of Southern perfidy bility, for advancing freights and charges, 21 from their horrible doom."

DEATH .- Men seldom think of the great event of death until the shadow falls acrosss their own path, hiding forever from their eyes the traces of the loved ones whose living smiles was the sunlight of their existence. Death is the great antagonist of life, and the cold thought of the tomb is the skeleton of all feasts. We do not want to go through the dark valley, although its passage may lead to paradise; and with Charles Lamb, we do not want to lie down in the muddy grave, even with kings and princes for our bed fellows. But the fiat of Nas ture is inexorable. There is no appeal or relief from the great law which dooms us to dust. We flourish and fade as the leaves of the forest; and the flower that blooms and withers in a day, has not a frailer hold on life than the mightiest monarch that ever shook the earth with his footsteps. Generations of men appear and vanish as the grass, and the countless multitude that throngs the worlk to-day, will to-morrow disappear as the footprint on the shore.

In the beautiful drama of Ion, the instinct of immortality so elequently uttered by the death devoted Greek, finds a deep response in every thoughtful soul When about to yield his young existence as a sacrifice to fate, his beloved Clemanthe asks if they shall not meet again, to which he replies:

"I have asked that dreadful question of the hills that look eternal; of the flowing streams that flow forever, of the stars among whose fields of azure my raised spirit hath walked to glory. All were dumb. But while I gaze upon they living face, I feel there's something in the love that mantles through its beauty that cannot wholly perish. We shall meet a. nearly four years service. He had on, when he gain, Clemanthe?"

Ex-President Tyler, who was a Miss prehension and delivery to me, or for his confine-Gardner, is heir to a just discoverd fortune in England, by which she will get County, N. C.," will receive attention.

The great Southern Weekly!

THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C.

A FAMILY JOURNAL OF LITERATURE AND NEWS

FOR SOUTHERN READERS.

THE South has too long been dependent upon the northern cities for its periodical literature. The weekly newspapers of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia, have swept like a flood over that part of the nation south of Mason and Dixon's Line, many of them carrying with them some of the prejudices of abolitionism; and inculcating, to a greater or less extent, doctrines injurious to southern institutions. This dependence of the mass of southern readers should be brown off-and it is believed would have been long ago, if there had been facilities in the South for the publication of first class literary papers. THE SPECTATOR.

Is published by a gentleman who has long been connected with some of the southern dailies, and has been undertaken to supply this wantthat of a high-toned weel: ly paper

OF SOUTHERN INTEREST AND CHARACTER. The general plan of the paper is as follows; It has eight pages; three of which are filled with the best articles on Literature, Science, and the Arts; one to the editor's comments upon passing themes; one to general news, foreign and mestic; one to the interests of the Farmer-[the information on this page will be mainly derived from the Agricultural Bureau of the U. S. Patent Office]; one to a synopsis of the operations of the Departments of the Government; and one, during the winter, to a report of the proceedings of Congress; altogether making a plan which will be rigidly adhered to, and which is unequalled by any paper in the country, North

The Spectator is printed on new type and on fine paper. Its quarto form makes it convenient for binding, and each annual volume being accompanied by a full index, it will be a most valuable paper for preservation and reference.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemic. I process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my rectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If, however, there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known!

few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intriusic merits. The Cherry Peetoral was their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and oven more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring meir irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Egirg sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, Eeing sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely regetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.
